Money Does Grow On Trees

At Chipaways we love trees. We love to see trucks laden with our children's future sawlogs. We love to see mountains of woodchips heading out on ships to help build the rubbish tips of Japan. Creating garbage from trees is a boom industry around the world. That's why at Chipaways we say, "We love rubbish", because we create it.

At Chipaways we're not fools. It would cost us too much to chip the heads of trees and genuine sawlog residue. Could you imagine having to spend some of our profits to employ more people just to clean up the logging coupes we've just trashed? That wouldn't make sense or dollars.

Every now and then people who actually live in forests come down to our plant. They come down here and protest about people sitting in cities, lining their pockets by destroying their forest. We tell them to "Rack off", and ask them, "What would you know?"

"Yes! Money really does grow on trees."

(Especially when we chip them).
